

13TH OF THE MONTH

Associated Black Charities and
Baltimore Racial Justice Action Present:

Girl Talk: Women and Race

Wednesday March 13, 2013

5:30–8:00 pm

American Brewery

1701 N. Gay St., 2nd Floor

Baltimore, Md. 21213

Okay, can we talk? We know that we are not a “post-racial” society—or even close. But does race STILL have an impactful stranglehold on our careers, our families, our cross-racial relationships, our daily lives? Or is it that we—as a society and as women—just cannot let go of America’s racial legacy, allowing it to define our lives? Diane Bell-McKoy, President/CEO, Associated Black Charities, will moderate a panel discussion about the ways race impacts women’s lives. She will be joined by panelists Maria Welch Martinez, CEO, Respira Medical; Cindy Plavier-Truitt, Chief Development Officer, Humanim, Inc.; and Caryn York, Policy Associate, Job Opportunities Task Force. Baltimore Racial Justice Action and Associated Black Charities invite you—women AND men—to join us for Girl Talk: Women and Race.

Security-monitored parking available on both sides of the building and in the parking lot across Lanvale St.

Questions? bmoreantiracist.org, bmoreantiracist@gmail.com
Baltimore Racial Justice Action is a member of Fusion Partnerships